

Pete Disses Ike

Pete Hegseth renamed Fort Eisenhower, named for the Supreme Commander of all Allied forces during World War II, and subsequently President of the United States, to Fort Gordon – a Confederate general guilty of treason against this nation.

Hegseth tried to disguise this nod to white supremacy by finding the name of another American soldier, a previously unknown Medal of Honor winner who, quite by coincidence (wink wink wink) also happened to have the last name Gordon.

Little men like Pete Hegseth are compelled by their fragile egos to erase the memory of great men like Eisenhower so they will not be reminded of their own petty insignificance.
